Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, 5-9, 19, and 20 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 0 376 331 ("Tsuru") in view of WO 01/66088 ("Holmberg").

Tsuru teaches slow release drug delivery granules (see page 2, line 42) comprising:

- the drug absorbed into porous particles of instant claims 1 and 2 (see page 2, lines 48 and 51);
- the calcium phosphate of instant claim 1 (see page 3, line 14); and
- the particle size of instant claims 5 and 6 (see page 3, line 46).

Tsuru explains that the disclosed particles are beneficial because they result in, "...controllable and good prolonged effect of the drug release..." See page 2, line 9.

While Tsuru does not explicitly teach the pore sizes of instant claims 7-9, it is the position of the Examiner that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to determine suitable pore size through routine or manipulative experimentation to obtain the best possible results, as these are variable parameters attainable within the art.

Moreover, generally, differences in pore size will not support the patentability of subject matter encompassed by the prior art unless there is evidence indicating such concentration is critical. "[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation." In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456; 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955). Applicants have not demonstrated any unexpected or unusual results, which accrue from the instant percentage ranges.

The prior art teaches a pore size of 1nm to 10um (see page 3, line 42).

Regarding the Ca to P ratio, Tsuru teaches a ratio as low as 1.3 (see page 2, line 49). A prima facie case of obviousness exists where the claimed ranges and prior art ranges do not overlap but are close enough that one skilled in the art would have expected them to have the same properties. Titanium Metals Corp. of America v. Banner, 778 F.2d 775, 227 USPQ 773 (Fed. Cir. 1985). See MPEP 2144.05.

Tsuru differs from the instant application in that it does not disclose NO-donating NSAIDs.

Holmberg teaches a drug delivery system comprising:

- the NO-donating NSAID of instant claim 1, said NSAID adsorbed into particles (see page 21, lines 29-30);
- the oily form of instant claim 2 (see page 11, lines 1-2);

- and the naproxen of instant claims 19 and 20 (see page 5, line 18) (the empirical formula of instant claim 20 is deemed to be an inherent description of naproxen).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to disclose a solid drug delivery composition comprising a NO-donating NSAID absorbed onto a porous particle, as taught by Tsuru in view of Holmberg. One of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made would have been motivated to make such a composition because it results in controllable and good prolonged effect of the drug release, as explained by Tsuru.

Response to Arguments

Applicants' arguments filed on 23 September 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants' main argument is that Tsuru teaches a Ca/P ratio of greater than 1. See remarks, pages 9-10.

As indicated above, examiner respectfully submits that Tsuru teaches a ratio as low as 1.3 (see page 2, line 49). A prima facie case of obviousness exists where the claimed ranges and prior art ranges do not overlap but are close enough that one skilled in the art would have expected them to have the same properties. Titanium Metals Corp. of America v. Banner, 778 F.2d 775, 227 USPQ 773 (Fed. Cir. 1985). See MPEP 2144.05.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
